My family and I drove to Malacca in Uncle Willie's new car. Uncle Willie had suggested the trip to treat us to some special food. It was a pleasant drive. The Causeway linking Singapore to Malaysia was quite clear of traffic that evening.

Soon we arrived at a restaurant. The restaurant was already crowded with people even though there were many tables. We chose a table outside, in front of the restaurant instead. It was a pleasant location since the evening was cool and breezy. 5

Uncle Willie ordered the dishes through a rather fat waiter who was dressed in singlet and shorts. As I listened to Uncle Willie's order, my stomach began to churn. We were going to eat deer meat with green peppers, tiger's tail soup, grilled crocodile meat and turtle soup. To top it all, each of us would be having a small serving of steamed python, and eel cubes steamed in ginger sauce. 10

I looked helplessly at my mother, but she was too delighted to notice that my eyes were half-closed and my face had turned green!

I was a heavy smoker. I would smoke one cigarette after another and light the new cigarette from the stub of the old. I was worried after the warning, so I decided to consult my doctor.

"Why is smoking so deadly?" I asked the doctor when he attended to me.

"It can cause lung cancer and the cancer can spread to many other parts of the body, such as the mouth, throat, liver, gall bladder and kidneys," he replied without hesitation.

The doctor also said that one of his patients, who was a habitual smoker, lost his leg because of poor blood circulation due to smoking.

I decided to give up chain-smoking as I knew it would be to my own benefit and my health would definitely improve.
