Section F – Comprehension MCQ (5 x 1 mark)

Read the given passage below and answer questions 26 to 30.

One of the most popular tourist destinations in South-East Asia are the temples of Angkor Wat in Cambodia. More than half a million foreign tourists visit the site each year and it has been considered by many writers and travellers to be one of the most beautiful places in the world. The name "Angkor Wat" actually means "city temple" in the ancient Cambodian language, and it is appropriate as the entire temple complex is actually more than 1 kilometre long and 800 metres wide. 5

The temples were built in the 12th Century at the command of King Suryavarman II as an offering to the Hindu god Vishnu. Thousands of workers worked day and night for almost 40 years to build the temples and the outer walls. However, King Suryavarman II did not live to see the completion of the temple. In fact, some of the construction work stopped upon his death and in the temples today, you can see that some of the decorations on the walls of the temples remain incomplete. 10

Two hundred years after the construction of the temples, the new king of Cambodia converted the national religion from Hinduism to Buddhism. As a result, the temples of Angkor Wat were converted into a Buddhist site. Over the next few centuries, the temples began to fall into disuse and were almost abandoned by the Cambodian people. 15

In the late 19th Century, many explorers and scientists from the Western world began to travel to Cambodia to study the land and its people. When they discovered Angkor Wat in the midst of a very dense forest, many of them were amazed at its design and its beauty. As they compared the complicated designs of the temples with the simple lives of the villagers living in Cambodia, they falsely believed that Angkor Wat was not constructed by the Cambodians but by people who had arrived from Rome or Egypt. Nonetheless, modern research has proven that the temples in Angkor Wat were built by the Cambodians using their own designs. 20 25

Even though the claims of the Western scientists and explorers were false, they had a positive effect on the temples of Angkor Wat. Their writings generated a lot of interest around the world and the government of Cambodia decided to restore the temple. Soon, Angkor Wat has returned to its place as the pride of the Cambodian people. The Cambodian national flag since 1863 has included a drawing of Angkor Wat in the middle, showing how important the temples are to the Cambodians. 30

For each question from 26 to 30, four options are given. One of them is the correct answer. Choose the correct answer and shade the corresponding oval on the Optical Answer Sheet (OAS) provided.

26. Based on the text, we know that Angkor Wat _____.

27. What does the word "it" in line 5 refer to?
- 1) The temple complex.
 - 2) The name "Angkor Wat".
 - 3) The Cambodian language.
 - 4) The city in which Angkor Wat is built. ()

28. Why did the Western scientists and explorers think that Angkor Wat was not built by the Cambodians?
- 1) Angkor Wat had been abandoned by the Cambodians.
 - 2) Angkor Wat looked like the buildings in Egypt and Rome.
 - 3) They knew that Romans and Egyptians had visited Cambodia in the past.
 - 4) They thought that the simple Cambodian villagers were incapable of building such a complex structure. ()

29. The word _____ is similar in meaning to "generated" in line 28.
- 1) filled
 - 2) spread
 - 3) created
 - 4) covered ()

Section K – Comprehension (10 x 2 marks)

Read the passage below and answer the questions that follow.

The night was still and the animals in the forests crept around in search of food. Barney, a hunter, and his son Jimmy kept extremely quiet as they waited for their prey. They had heard of a tiger which had been terrorising the villagers in the area and their mission that night was to kill it before it attacked any more people.

“Daddy, why is the tiger attacking the villagers? Tigers don’t usually leave the forests, right?” Jimmy asked. 5

“You are right. Something must be wrong in the forest. I have a feeling it must be the loggers who are destroying the animals’ habitat. When the tiger runs out of prey in the forest, it will hunt in the villages,” Barney whispered in reply.

The moon and stars were hidden behind dark clouds. As they lay in wait, they could hear the cracking of twigs as something approached them. Barney held out his rifle and tried to take aim but he could not. Barney told Jimmy to get a flare ready and to fire it at his command. As the heavy footsteps got closer, Barney gave the command and Jimmy released the flare. Soon, the dark forest shone as bright as day. To his horror, Barney saw four human figures. He was relieved that he did not fire his weapon at them. 10 15

Barney and his son got up and walked towards the four men, who were equally surprised to see Barney and his son. Jimmy suddenly asked, “Daddy, do you smell something strange? It smells like kerosene or some kind of fuel.”

Barney stopped suddenly in his tracks and told Jimmy to run home. The four men dropped the large tanks they were carrying and reached for their rifles. Barney turned around and ran while the men fired shots in his direction. Though most of the shots missed him, one had pierced his arm. When Barney arrived home, Jimmy was in tears as he saw that his father’s shirt was drenched in blood. 20

“Don’t cry, boy. I am fine,” Barney reassured Jimmy. “Let’s go.” 25

Barney got into his truck with Jimmy and drove for half an hour to get to the police station. He informed the police chief about what had happened and they drove towards the forest to investigate. Along the way, a police officer helped to treat Barney’s wound. When the police cars and Barney’s truck arrived at the edge of the forest, they saw huge flames engulfing the trees. Barney’s heart sank and the heads of the police officers lowered as they realised that the fire could not be put out. The village simply did not have the equipment to deal with a fire like that. To make things worse, the men who had set fire to the forest had escaped. 30

Within a day, the entire forest was reduced to ashes. A man from the city drove to the home of the village chief and offered to buy up the entire forest to build a ranch for his cattle. Without much choice, the village chief agreed. As the rancher returned to his car, his driver said, “Our guys did a good job with the forest, right?” The rancher nodded and the car drove off towards the city. 35

For each question from 71 to 80, write your answer in the space provided. All answers must be in complete sentences.

71. What was Barney trying to hunt inside the forest that night?

72. What caused the twigs on the forest floor to crack in line 11?

73. Why was Barney unable to take aim in line 12?

74. What was the purpose of the flare?

75. Why was Barney relieved that he had not fired his weapon in line 15?

76. What does the phrase "...shirt was drenched in blood" in line 24 tell you about Barney's condition?

77. Where were Barney and Jimmy going in line 25?

78. Why were the police officers unable to put out the fire?

79. Which three-word phrase in the passage tells you that the forest had burnt down completely?

80. Why did the rancher hire the men to burn down the forest?
